Pioneer Activities

Gain a little insight to what the early settlers faced as they accepted the call to build the Statehouse and Utah's First Capital City, through various pioneer activities.

- Wood working
- Water channeling
- Cabin building
- Rock working
- Candle making
- Rope making
- Weaving
- Quilting
- Spinning

Old Time Dance

Discover why dancing was a pioneer favorite, at an old time dance held in the Statehouse, where Brigham Young, Heber C. Kimball, George Q. Cannon and friends loved to dance.

There will be plenty of skipping, spinning and sashaying. Come with sturdy shoes and lots of energy. We'll use dance cards and games to choose partners and learn simple pioneer reels, marches, schottisches & polkas. And just like the youth of that day, we'll sneak in a waltz or two, even though Brigham Young thought them risqué.

Rounders

Play in an old time Rounders Tournament. This early form of baseball uses hand-carved bats, hand-sewn balls and no mitts. The rules allow for a wild game:

- Every hit ball is fair, but can be caught on the fly or 1 bounce for an out.
- Runners can't return to a base once they've left, but don't have to stay in the baseline as they escape being tagged or pelted for an out.
- All batters must get out for an inning to be over.

All in all, these make for a crazy-fun game for youth and leaders, skilled and unskilled players alike.
